Attorney Docket No.: 119529-1015

PATENT

S/N 09/328,526: Version with Markings to Show Changes Made

1. An apparatus for catalyzing a reaction on a substrate comprising:
  - a light source;
  - a diffusion lens between said light source and said micromirror;
  - a micromirror positioned to redirect light from said light source toward said substrate;
  - a computer connected to, and controlling, said micromirror; and
  - a reaction chamber is placed in the path of light redirected by said micromirror, wherein light that is redirected by said micromirror catalyzes a chemical reaction proximate said substrate in said reaction chamber.
